WELCOME

At Blanco Behavioral Health Consulting, we treat everyone like family. We know that each person is much more than just what appears. We believe that everyone has strengths to uncover and strengths to enhance. We think of therapy as a practice. We practice our skills and tools every day to improve our quality of life, like exercising.

Healing happens in a healthy environment within a healthy relationship. We create that here at Blanco Behavioral Health because we believe that the world benefits when you find the best version of yourself.

We believe in duality. Our challenges are difficult and painful; they have the potential, however, to teach us about ourselves and what we can handle. Our defense mechanisms protect us indeed, but they can also hurt us when we no longer need them to keep us safe in the same ways as they did.

We use interventions such as Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT), Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing (EMDR), Dialectical Behavioral Therapy (DBT), Prolonged Exposure Therapy (PET), Psychodynamic Therapy (PT), and Community Resiliency Model (CRM) to identify:

1. Where the core emotional injuries happened in the past.
2. The triggers that are associated with our past Trauma.
3. The duality in our responses (what serves us, what doesn't).
4. Our losses and grieve them properly.
5. Our skills and strengths and celebrate them and maintain them.

We specialize in resiliency-informed care and believe that our clients can significantly improve their self-view and self-efficacy with the right help and a supportive environment.

Welcome to BBHC!

INFORMED CONSENT FOR PSYCHOTHERAPY/COUNSELING

Our licensed and associated counseling providers vary in training but have all completed intensive training in how to work with psychological trauma. BBHC is a trauma-informed organization and as such we provide services to survivors of trauma. We firmly believe that our clients must be active in this process. Our counseling services are designed for clients to be actively involved so they can benefit from the interventions and techniques employed.

We understand that emergencies happen. We ask that you notify your therapist 24 hours in advance if you will not be able to keep your regular appointment. Attending your therapy regularly is very important in the recovery process. Missing two or more appointments without notice may result in suspension of services.

If you have an extensive substance abuse problem, the therapist may require you to complete or be concurrently enrolled in a drug or alcohol abuse program before beginning your therapy.

The client cannot come to counseling sessions under the influence of drugs or alcohol because it interferes with the therapy process. If the therapist suspects that the client is under the influence of drugs or alcohol, the session will be terminated. If this behavior continues, it may end in suspension of services. Clients who are aggressive, threatening, or behaving in a dangerous manner will be asked to leave the office/session until they demonstrate that they have corrected their behavior. If this behavior continues, it may end in suspension of services.

All counseling providers are required to communicate to the client:

- The benefits and possible risks of the therapies and techniques to be employed.
- The benefits and possible risks of the technology in use (video conference) and emergency practices. Clients should review the attached "Consent to Participate in Telehealth Services" document with their therapist and sign the document if they agree with the terms before beginning the therapeutic relationship.
- The price established for the type of therapy that the client needs. Clients should review the attached "Payment Policy" document with their therapist and sign the document if they agree with the terms before beginning the therapeutic relationship.
- The client's right to protection of their personal information (HIPAA). Insured clients and clients in the state's victims of crime program (CalVCB) should review the attached document "Notice of Privacy Practices (HIPAA)" and sign the document if they agree with what is described therein before beginning the therapeutic relationship.
- The limits of confidentiality before beginning counseling services. Everything that the client communicates to their therapist is kept strictly confidential and is not disclosed to other persons or entities without the written consent of the client.
